Description

The chalet, which is one of the two national training centers of the “Lëtzebuerger Guiden a Scouten”, was build in several construction periods since 1956. Most of the works were done by volunteering scouts.

The building is suited to give room to 82 persons. A recreational area with possibility of campfire as well as a camping ground is available on the same site. Recently, the chalet has been entirely renovated and is conform to the official sanitary conditions. The chalet fulfils the present norms for hygiene and safety and is controlled by the respective public institutions.

Even though the centre is well equipped for trainings or seminars, it is true to the “scouting spirit”. The centre is preferentially rented to organized youth-groups. Naturally the chalet is rented only to one group at once.

Conferences and seminars

Catering and translation services including technical equipment and human resources can be assured by specialized service providers for conference meetings.
